a very good Christian in his lifetime died.  His widow, although she was bereaved and felt the loss of her husband, neverthe less, had a sense of happiness about her because she trusted the scriptures about life after death. She posted a sign which the doctor had used in his waiting room for years. She recalled how he had placed the sign on the door for his patients when they came to the office and waited while he was off on an emergency errord. The sign stated simply, "Gone for a little while, back soon." This she confidently hung over his effice door.

When Jesus had been crucified and had arisen from the dead, he told his disciples that a little while the they would not see him anymore, but that one day he would return. So they looked for him to come again. They believed it so fervently that they looked for this coming in their lifetime. Paul spoke of this coming very often, and he must have spoken of it in such glowing terms that the people of Thessalonica quit their jobs and were living off each other awaiting the coming of Christ. Paul had to admonish them and tell them that they must work until Christ came and not quit ahead of time.

previous we have seen and observed that Christ has not come all pf the ensuing centuries and he is still awaited. So until he comes we must live and work, and perhaps die before his coming. But until that awaited day we must also comes that awaited day we must also comes for our sins through his sacrifice.

This past week in Confirmation class we were discussing the chapter in the book that task takes a look at the individual. We talked of the things we must know about ourselves. The first thing we learned that we showld know was that we are sinners, that we sin in our individual lives and we fall short of the glory of God. The Second thing we should learn xxxxx is that everyone else in the world is a sinner. So if we add together that we personally are sinners, plus everyone else in the world is sinful, then we can see that we all have one common denominator and this is Jesus Christ. We being sinful come to his table to partake of his body and blood for our forgiveness, and all of sinful mankind has the same priviledge to share this supper for their forgiveness. So we all share the communion and we share in forgiveness, but there is yet a third denominator. This is the fact that we are forgiven for what we do, and because of this we should be forgiving as well. We should come to the Lord's table and ask forgieveness for our sins, but we should also remember those who have committed sins against us, and forgive them for what they have done. This in essence is what this Lord's table is all about. To forgive as well as to be forgiven. To let bygones be bygones and start out with a clean slate. Hating no man , loving all men. This is why we have communion at the beginning of the new year. To clear the slate of past sins and past hatreds and to face a year with love for all.

Christ said, "And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself." He was both lifted up when he hung on the cross and died for us, And he was lifted up when he ascended into heaven to ke reign at the right hand of God. He drew all men to him as he said. All men were drawn to the sight and the spectacle of this man when he was killed. All manxare eyes were upon him to see what he would and could do at that time. All men are drawn to him today as well. But not all as followers unfortunately. Some men come to him to speak against him. Some men come to him to work against him. But all men are drawn to him in one way or another. With Christ there is no middle ground. You either love him or you hate him.

This table is where we as believers in him are drawn to-ward him. We come to him to partake of him and to share in the sacrifice of him for us and for our sins. We are drawn toward him and the life he led, and so we must in true Christlike life and style forgive as well as be forgiven. "Gone for a little while, back soon." How soon no one knows, but I, traite when I am lifted up from the earthm will draw all men to myself." Amen.

Call to Worship: Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him whike he is near; let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord that he may have mercy upon him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. Lord, have mercyu upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Christ, have mercy upon us. Christ, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Assurance of Pardon: How precious is the steadfast love of God! He gives to man all things in due season. We may find refuge in him and strength for our lives, for with him is forgiveness for all our sins. Amen.

O holy Father, we confess that both as individuals and as a Church, we have been too much preoccupied with ourselves and too little concerned for the welfare of others. Thou hast taught us to help to bear the burdens of our brethren in Christ; but often we have failed to support the weak, to help the needy, and to encourage the disheartened. Thou hast commanded us to let our light shine out in the world; but we have failed to bear witness to Christ before men, and to seek them that are lost. For all our disobedience, carelessness, and lovelessness, we implore thy forgiveness. Cleanse us from our sin, and so strengthen and assist us by thy grace that we may henceforth fulfill the law of Christ; for his dear sake. Amen.

CHUKCH LUKE 4

Text: Luke 4:22b & 24. "Is not this Joseph's son?" "And he said, "Truly, I say to you, no prophet is acceptable in his own country."

The young man came back to his hometown and on Sunday morning he went to his church that he had attended all of his life. Since he had become somewhat of an authority in some subjects, he was asked to speak in the service. He stood on the chancel and read from the Old Testament some words of one of the prophets. Then he closed the Bible and told the congregation that this prophecy was being carried out in the present age.

The members of the congregation had known this young man from infancy, and they knew that he came from a poor uneducated family and that somehow he had managed to educate himself. Now here he was a sort of expert in his field and they marveled at the wisdom with which he spoke.

Then he went on, he told them that they did not appreciate his authority, because he had come from that town, and after all, what could be possibly become after having such meager beginnings!

He told them that there had been injustices committed in the hometown and the surrounding area. He spoke of the things that needed to be corrected. With each new charge that he laid at their doorstep the people in the congregation became more angry until finally they escorted him from the church.

In case you are wondering where this happened and who the young man was, you can find it recorded in Mark's gospel the beginning of the 6th chapter and in Luke's gospel the beginning of the 4th chapter. Luke goes into a little more detail with his narrative.

Here we have not only a nice little story, but some very interesting background as well.

In Luke we read that he went to the Synagogue as was his custom on the Sabbath day. To those who say that Jesus was not a follower of organized religion this should prove that he was not only an attender of the Synagogue services, but was probably a member as well. I believe this point , "as was his custom," has a great deal of significance to it. We hear a lot of people make the remark, today, 'I can get just as much out of watching a religious service on television as I could out of going to church. " Or, "I don't need to go to church I can be just a religious outside of it." Thisxisxnokyniyxerroneous thinking,x There is some merit in what some people say along these lines, but it is not completely true. The church as it is today causes some problems with some people. They perhaps go to church and are not getting anything out of it because in many cases the church has become a sounding board for all types of social problems and ills. Too many pulpits are being used to expound human thoughts and theories and too little of the word of God and the gospel of Jesus Christ. I can agree with this and I am sure you can too.

But look back to the Synagogue of the time of Christ.

Let's ask wather whether the Synagogue then was one of complete adherence to the expounding of the love of God? It couldn't have been. During the week preceding the death of Christ we are aware that he went to the Synagogue and threw out those who sold and bargained there. This is not an isolated example of what was going on the . This was happening in every Synagogue throughout Palestine. The Scribes and the Pharisees were so intent on making new laws to fulfill the old one, that the use of the Synagogue for worship was secondary.

But did Jesus ever say that he was going to stay outside of the organized church because there were too many hypocrites there?

We never see it recorded anywhere and I am sure that had he felt this way and expressed it, someone would have picked it up and written about it.

Instead we see a man who takes the scribes and pharisees to task for their actions. Time and again he attacked them on their concern for the letter of the law and their lack of concern for the individual. He wanted to work at the task of changing the church from within. Instead of standing on the outside and criticizing it, he was TRIME TO WORK CHANGING IT & RENEWING IT.

I read an interesting interview of a man who calls himself a humanist. He belongs to an organization in Pittsburgh that is made wix up of people who are atheists and humanists. THEYXIEXNAX ACCEPTIVE ACCEPTIVE SOME of them believe in a supreme being of some sort. But their main theme in life is that of trusting to humanity for help. This life is the important thing and there is nothing beyond this life.

Quote on question asked by interviewer. (William Mchodland humanism)

This shows the utter futility of his beliefs. To the Christian life is indeed, "a haunting, awful thing," but there is hope to be found in Christ. This is actually what Christ himself was fighting. He was trying to make the Jewish religion of his day see the error of their ways, and to make it more relevant. But he was doing it from within, or trying to do it from within. It was only when he was forced out because the leaders and some of the people would not listen that he worked completely on the outside.

The conclusion of this story tells us that after he had finished speaking, "all in the synapopue were filled with wrath and they rose up and jut him out of the city," and they wanted to throw him off the cliff, but he passed through them. This shows us the actions of those who will not hear or listen to the truth.

Fow many times do we hear in our own day, the words of someone was has one estray raying, "if only I had listened."?

Unfortunately, many times we do not lister to the truth. 'e want to sput it out, to still it and to close our ears from it. Easy times we read of your, nearly who would not lister to their parents regretfully saying they wished they had beaded their parents sivice. In all some of tany, many years upo stated the simple truth that, "Lother's prigare have followed as." "You many times do you suppose inthers, as well as fathers and prandparents, have been unable to make their young loved ones see what is right wantstay have manorted to prayer as the only means by which to help them? You often do you think our loved ones pray for us and for the only help possible for us?

This is one area we do no know the much about, has I am sure that there are many praying offered up on our belief.

In Mark we read that because of the recontion Jesus received in Massreth in relation to this story, "We could do no mighty work there." This is true of individual lives and of churches that are devoid of the spirit of Jesus Christ. In a poem entitled, "The Church Podey," written by "ir William watson he writes, (illustration).

If this is the true tone of the church today, then those who are huminists, atheists, cymics unhelievers or whatever they wish to be called, can stand back and say that the church is dying and will disappear in a very short time. And they will be right. But my friends in a world filled with those who would destroy, and those who would stand back and plost that the church is ione, finished and all but buried, there is know still hope. There is still life. But it requires a new look at the course. I new look at the people within and what it is the church is trying to prove in a very confused and begindered world.

The voice of fod is calling its surmons unto men; as once he spoke in Fion, so now he speaks again: .hom shall I send to succor my people in their need? .hom shall I send to loosen the bonds of shame and greed?

I hear my people cryin; in xxxxxxxx cot and nine and slum; No field or mart is silent, no city street is dumb. I see my people felling in darkness and despair. Now shall I send to shatter the fetters which they bear?

We heed O Ford, thy summons, and shower here are we! Wend us upon thine errand, let us thy servents be. When strength is dust and askes, our years a passing hour; But thou canst use our waskness to mannify thy rower.

From ease and plenty save us; from pride of place absolve; Fur; e us of low desire; lift us to high resolve; Take us, and make us holy; teach us they will and way.

Freak, and behold: .e answer; command, and we obey.

These words John welres wrote in a hymn that deals with brotherhood. The voice of hod is still calling today as it called in and through the life of Jesus Christ. The world is waiting to see what the church will do. We are the church, the people who belong to it. What we do about the conditions of the world around us is what the church will either be judged as doing or of leaving undone. Lay our prayer be, "Take us and make us holy; teach us thy will and way. Peak, and, behold we enswer! command and we obet."

The Tall to Jorship

The Prayer of Confession (Unison)

In this season of self-discipline, when we are giving shought to our discipleship, make us award that being a disciple means to follow Jesus Christ as he seeks to be servent of all. Thus we would rectain a reall who are recoved from home and friends and must live among strangers; all who are hungry or without adequate slelter; all who because of color of skin are aust from full participation in the whole of life; all who because of an are sufficient of the night because of anxiety or fear; all who face the perils of war; all who walk through the valley of the shadow of death. Give us not only the sensitive awardness to pray for these but the grace to serve them in their need; through his was loved as and gave himself for us, even Christ our Lord. The Kyrie

Call to Worship: Why are we gathered at this place at this hour? We are gathered as the people of God, to come to know and serve and praise him as he is seen in Jesus Christ and made known by the Hoxy Spirit.

Let us acknowledge the God before whom we stand. Let us seek him in confession.

Lord, have mercy upon us.
Lord, have mercy upon us.
Christ, have mercy upon us.
Christ, have mercy upon us.
Lord, have mercy upon us.
Lord, have mercy upon us.

Assurance of Pardon: Almighty God had mercy upan us and gave his only Son to die for us, and for his sake forgives us of all our sins. To those that believe in his name he gives power to become the Sons of God, and he bestows upon them his Holy Spirit. He that believes ix shall be saved.

"Freedom Is ---?"

Text: Ecclesiastes 12: 13b "Fear God , and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Luke 17:10b "We are unworthy servants; we have only done what was our duty."

(Illustrations from newspaper about rights and freedom)

These are just two examples of what we can read in the paper on almost any given day of the week. Or we can hear these things on the radio and see them on television. Many people seem to have an axe to grind today and it all falls under the category of "rights."

WHY We read in the Declaration of Independence, "We hold these truths to be self evident: that all men are created equal: that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights."

Rights, are what guaranteed for every American. These rights are also called freedoms. The freedom of speech, the freedom of religion, the freedom of appears, the freedom to meet and assemble. These are all rights that our forefathers thought important enough to work for and to strive for. Yet, how do we interpret them?

On a college campus in the Southwest, the Jesus Freaks sing during lunch hour. A group of students have protested this and have asked that they be restrained from this singing. Strangely enough it is the same college group that has been protesting to the administration for freedom of speech on campus.

In Maryland a man is arrested after shooting George Wallace. When he was brought to court to enter a plea, his plea was that of inocent. I can't figure out how he intends to justify his actions, unless he pleads that his rights were being violated. Maybe he will say, "Well you see I was looking at this gun I have been a carrying around and someone bumped me and it went off, 5 times."

Strangely enough one of the charges against him is, "Interfering with the rights of a political candidate." But it is here that we must ask, "Whose rights have priority?" Do I have the right to shoot someone because I disagree with his philosophy? Do my rights take priority over the rights of others? Must my rights be served first, and all others take a secondary position?

The answer lies in the fact that right along with rights is another word called, "Duty." With every right, or every freedom, there is a duty. A duty that must be taken care of and the requirements met. Otherwise rights and freedoms are meaningless.

In the wary creation story we see this very clearly.

were Adam and eve war given the run of the place. They kny all of the had space they could ask for. They kny all of the beauty that anyone could possibly want. They were completely free. All this was their "rights." The only thing that God required of them was that they were not to eat of the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. This was their duty, and we all know the rest.

We as citizens of this land have certain duties as well. Some people feel it is their duty to dodge the draft, and they flee the country and then complain because no one has granted them amnesty and they are exiles. But it is perfectly fine for everyone else to serve their country. Some people feel it is their duty to burn their draft cards or the flag, and if arrested, their "rights" are being infringed upon. After all the federal laws against this only apply to certain people. Some people feel that we are infringing upon the rights of the Vietnamese people by continued bombing and fighting there, and they carp's would have us ignore completely the fact that the North Vietnamese are still shooting rockets and weapons, and have hever ceased or shown a desire to do so.

Some people wankinknexes are advocating the overthrow of our present form of government so we can start all over, and when arrested or brought to trial are screaming, "My rights have been infringed upon." Yet, they never stop to think that by imposing their wild schemes on everyone they are violating the "Rights" of millions of decent honest Americans who will continue to work in the present system, trying to right it, trying to cleanse it and make it what our forefathers wanted dreamed it could and should be.

AMARMAKAMAMAKAMAXXAMAKAKAMAKAKAMAMA

On another occasion another Pharisee came to Jesus and asked him what was the greatest commandment. And Jesus answered, "To love God with all of your heart, all of your soul, and with all of your mind. And you shall love your neighbor as yourself."

Another man came and asked how what he had to do to inherit eternal life. And Jesus told him to keep the commandments. Therefore the factions of Ecclesiastes states, "Fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Man has rights, but he also has duties. So we could say that freedom is --- duties. It is when we realize that we have obligations to me be met along with our rights, then we can be truly free. John Donne wrote the familiar lines we probably all know, "No man is an island," but the part most of us do not know is what follows. thase words. "no man is an island entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main." We are not just separate individuals adrift in the sea of life. We are all a part of the whole. We are all responsible for the welfare of others. We all need each other.

One of the rights that is rather unique in America is the freedom of religion that we enjoy. But this freedom is and has been eroded in our nation and is in danger of falling by the wayside if the present trend is not reversed. I was reminded of this again this week by one of the articles in the booklet, "Our Daily Bread." (Illustration of Ring the Bell Now.)

If we are to bring back a degree of sanity to our nation and the world, it must start within the ranks of the Christian community. We who are the followers of Christ, must set the example, and start our nation back to the principles upon which it was founded. Freedom is "Duty", "Fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Text: Hebrews 10:23 "Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering."

"I would be brave, for there is much to dare," these words were written by Howard Walter who died in th 1918 flu epidemic in Lahore India, where he was the literary secretary for the YMCA. This in itself is not so significant, but the man behind the hymn is. Mr. Walter wrote this the words of this hymn, wh at the age of 23. The date beside his name in the hynal is wrong, because he was born in 1883, graduated from taught in Waseda University in Tokyo Japan after his graduation in 1905, and it was while here, that he wrote the now famous lines.

His original intention was not to have the two minute turned into a hymn. He wrote them and sent them to his mother as a personal message. She in turn thought they were so wonderful, she sent them to Harpers magazine and appeared there for the first time in print. They found the say into many hymnbooks and became favorite verses of many young people everywhere.

Mr. Walter came back from the orient to further his studies at the Hartford Seminary and upon completion wanted to return to the orient as a minister. But it was discovered that he had a weak heart and was refused an appointment. In fact one doctor told him he had only a few years to live. He stated that because of his illness and the prospects of a short life, "That makes it all the more essential that I get back to work at once." Unable to secure an appointment as a missionary, he went to Dr. John Mott of the YNCA and secured a position as literary secretary in Lahore India. He worked in the Forman Christian College among the students, and was not only untiring in his efforts there, but gave of himself as a counselor to the students.

In a book written by Alice Bays, which contains this hymn and a capsule account of the life of Mr. Walter, she wrote of him, "The creed of his life is reflected in every line of the hymn. He was not an ascetic who withdrew from the world, neither was he a mystic who pondered over abstract questions, but instead he put his ideals to work in his everyday life. He gloried in strength and daring, not for himself, but for those who were weak and dependent upon him. He determined to hold on to his ideals, not for selfish reasons, but because there were those who would be hurt if he failed."

In this immediate quotation, there are two phrases that stand out. "He put his ideals to work in his everyday life," and, "He determined to hold on to his ideals." What wonderful words that could be used for an epitaph to his life. What wonderful words if they could be applied to each of us.

This is what the author of Hebrews was saying when he wrote, "Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who promised is faithful; and let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another."

As we think in terms of youth, and graduation and paying recognition to the graduates, as well as to all students, what better words to convey to them than, "Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering."

"We all make footprints on the sands of time," a minister once told his congregation, "Just be sure you leave the mark of a great soul, not the imprint of a heel," he added. To hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering in our present day and age is rather difficult as we all know. We are surrounded by distractions of all kinds. We are being wooed on all sides by the sights and sounds and the pleasures afathiaxwark this world has to offer.

The story is told of the young man who enrolled at Amherst College. (Illustration of college boy and V).

This young man knew what he wanted. He knew the direction toward which he was headed. This type of belief and confidence can only come from a person who is able to, "Hold fast to the confession of their hope without wavering."

The author of Hebrews also admonished us, Xxxxxix "let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works." This is a task of immense proportions, and I do not mean to imply it as a task only for the young people of the church. We should each be concerned with stirring up people, and stirring up each other. We must become concerned when one of our members continues to be absent, and we should take the iniative to find out why. Too often the members of the church take the attitude that it is none of my business, which is utterly false, because"it is my business." "It is my business" to be concerned as a Christian. And it is not being nosey or butting into the affairs of others. When I use the term "My" I am not just speaking of myself, but using a term that you should apply in your life. Another fallacy held by church members is that seeking out the absentees of the church is strictly the task of the minister. This too is erroneous. since many times the paster cannot possibly be in all places at one time, and many times when he calls upon the absentees, they immediately put up their defenses and the real reason for their absence ixx is not learned, at least from the pastor's standpoint. But if an ordinary lay man calls on absentee members, they not anly meet on common ground, but information may be learned that can be passed on to the pastor and he may be of help or assistance to that member.

We must also, "Not neglect to meet together as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another." This would mean that we must not neglect the worship of God, and encourage others to do the same. Too often the story of our youth in our nation today is one off being, "too old for Church School2. "Why do I have to go Mom? My friends don't have to go." Or they use the excuse they like to sleep in on Sunday morning, or they were out too late last night. Or they fall back on the old time worn excuses their parents have used for years. When instead their devotion to their God should be like the fellow who kalenged x as x as going to a certain college and was about to be taken into one of the fraternities of that college. (Illustration of college boy).

This would take some courage in the face of such opposition. We don't go to church to please our mothers or fathers. We do not attend because we like distinct the minister. We do not go because we wish to please the minister, or to make an impression on our neighbors. Nor do we go to church for a hundred and one othercreasons. But we go to church because we love God, because we are thankful and grateful for what he has done for us and given us in the past days and weeks. And we go because our love is so full that we must worship him, and we can only do this to our highest and best in the company of others of like minds and purposes.

We need to each look inward, and ask "How true?" can I be to my God. How true am I to my God? Does my love come anywhere near what it should? What must I do to change it toward that end? Samuel Isaac Joseph Schereschuwsky was born of Jewish parents in Russian Lithuania. (Illustration of what he did)

Imagine the amount of effort it took to complete his task. But also imagine also, the amount of love that he had in his heart to do it in the manner in which it was done. Where we read accounts of people such as Bishop Scheres chewsky we can't help but wish for more of them in the world. We need people who are true at any and all costs. We need people who will not be deterred from the goal set before them.

General William Booth the founder of the Salvation Army was such a man. He made such an impression on some peeple that he has moved them to pray on his behalf.

(Illustration of old man praying for more Booth's).

I would be true, but how true? I would be pure, but how pure? I would be strong, but how strong? I would be brave, but how brave? I would be friend, but what kind of friend? I would be giving, but how generous? I would be humble, but how humble? All of this I would be, for my God. And with his help and his love, I would be able to look up, and laugh, and love, and lift. May we each one be all of this and more through our Lord Jesus Christ.

FATHER'S DAY
CHILDREN'S DAY

Text: Proverbs 22:6 "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he has grown, he will not depart from it."

Proverbs 22:6 "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he has grown, he will not depart from it."

Matthew 18:3, "Unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven."

Today being Father's Day, what more appropriate way to celebrate it than by observing children's day. If this seems unappropriate, we may ask, "Just what itxis is it that makes a man a father?" The answer of course is children. Hence the celebration of children's day on Father's day.

Children are very enigmatic figures to grown-ups. They can be little devils or little angels. They can be fun to have around and they can make us widh they were out of sight. Who else could seek out all of the mud puddles, soiling his good clothes, and be punished and do the same thing and be mpunished again, and lay in his little bed looking like an angel while he sleeps, but a little boy. Who else can be a little imp, that gets into all kinds of mischief, and yet grins at you with a face that could melt stone, but a little girl.

They make us love them in spite of ourselves, and they make us absolute ogres at times, but we can't get along without them.

God created something wonderful when he created children.

They are good for some of the best laughs available. The story is told of the little girl who was so sleepy she could hardly keep her eyes open while her sister prayed. So when it came her turn she said, "Dear God, shexuridxeverythingxIxvanted everything she said, goes for me too, Amen." A little boy was afraid of thunder and lightning, so one night when his mother was putting him to bed on a particularly stormy evening, she told him that the thunder and lightning would not hurt him.

She told him that God was right there with him and he would be alright. When she thought she had calmed him sufficiently she went downstairs and shortly a loud crash of thunder was heard and the little boy came running downstairs. He said, "Mommy, you go upstairs with God, and I'll stay down here

Text: Watthew 18: 3-6 / Proverbs 12:6

To derive a special service to bothers, and we had a special mon for good old Dad. Tow I'll only fitting and prover that we devote one the service was. We all are involved with children in one way or another, so here you tune me out let me add that although I am talking about children, I am not just talking to them.

Cur Coripture this morning has quite a bit of meat in it. Jesus said some things that should make everyone who is a professing Christian look teaches at life a little more closely. We teaths us the responsibility of change, we teaches us the responsibility of teaching rightly, and we teaches us the value of a child.

Jesus in speaking to Mis disciples told them, "Unless you change and become like little children you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. The IF THIS SENTENE key word, is change. We was giving a warning to Wis followers. We was telling them that unless they do a turn about in their lives they were going in the wrong dir-_ tion. They were facing away from the kingdom instead of towards it. The game of life as it is often called is strictly a matter of what it is each man is seeking. Does he or she seek only self fulfilment? Is he or she only concerned with self? Is he or she aiming at personal ambition? Or personal prestige? If he or she is concerned with any or all of these things then they are headed away from the kingdon of Tod. To be a citizen of this kingd " requires that a erson be forgetful of self and self gratification. It means the spending of life in service and not at power. is longer as a man considers himself the most in ortant thing in the world, he is traning his back to the kindom. Te must turn around. Change in other words and face in the opposite direction and look down the math of life that Jesus trod. That not helm and service.

Jesus took a little child we are told and put the child in front of them and told them to change and be like that child. An ancient legend handed m tells us that this particular child grew op to be Ignatius of Antioch. This man became a great servant of the early Church, a great writer, and a mertyr for Christ. This legend is based on the fact that Ignatius had the surname of Theophoros, which means Tod carried or Tod borne. And the tradition has it that he was wared given this name becaue Jesus carried him on Fis knee. It has also been thought that perhaps the boy Jesus had on Mis knee was Peter's son. Fince it res Peter who asked the question. But regardless of what the real identity of the boy, the thought brought out by Jesus was the wonderful qualities of a child. Children have the most remarkable qualities. They can wonder about things and onder what we adults take for granted. They can for ive and forget while we adults hold grudges and remember our hurts from other people. And they have that innocence about them that is seldom if ever seen in an adult. But there are a REME couple of more qualities that perhaps stand out much more. First there is the quality of humility. A child is not pushy usually. If he is it is usually caused by some adult pushing him. A child does not want to be out in the forefront. General-AND ly a child is content to stay in the background. Then a child is dependent. He relies on his parents or grandparents. He is content to let those in charge of him be concerned over the necessities of life. Isn't it a shame that men cannot rely on God in this fashion? To be as devendent as a child would make this world a much better place in which to live. Wen would not have the great differences that parate them. And then there a child is trusting. We will acceptlife as it is without worry or care. To believes that all is well. I was watching four young NOT LUNG AGO boys playing this past week. Two of them were white and two were black. They were wrestling and thoroughly enjoying themselves as children will when I first passed them. When I drove past them on my way out of town they were all seated close together in the shade of this big tree drinking pop. They didn't wistrust each IT IS WE APICTS WIFE STUDIES OF TRETUDICE IN THEIR MINDS. other as growners do. They didn't care that their skins are wdifferent colors. AND IT IN THE FROM HELL LEWIN GENERATION AND AND IT IN THE FROM HELL ARE THE ONES TO DO IT, IF WE DON'T SOW WA CREET IN THEM. Who resus goes on to tell that no one should lay anything in the way of the proper unbringing of children. One of the most unromantic jobs in the world is to be the tender of pots and pans and endless washbaskets filled with dirty grimy little clothes. Of scrubbing and scouring dirty knees and elbows. But isn't this doing what Jesus said? Looking after His little ones. There is another task that deserves a let of thanks too and this is the job of the teacher. Those who in Encemple by the Jews. They held that a mans own sins can be forgiven, but if he taught someone else to sin, this person perhaps taught someone else and so on. There is nothing more terrible than to destroy commons innocence. The story is told of the old man lying on his deathbed who was creatly disturbed. To one could get the real reason from him. Finally someone was able to get him to confide his secret. The old man said, "then we were boys at play, one day at a crossroads, we reversed a significant so that its arms were pointing in the wrong direction. I've never ceased to wonder how many people were sent in the wrong direction by what and did. How many people have you and I sent in the wrong direction by what we have done? A grave responsibility indeed, to protect the innocence of others.

The value of a child is a very important thing. There are children in the world today that no one cares about. They are just as such excess because to everyone around them. Any me who cares for children or even thinks that they we worth conething, can be aroundled at the conditions and cruel fates that are and have been bestoped upon innocent children. Ty first impression of what war and fighting produces was witnessed on a cold Pebruary day in 1957 traveling across Morea in a truck to get to my assigned company. We had landed at Inchon the night before and were on our way to join our groups. The temperature was hovered around ten below. We passed through a burned out deserted Morean village. At least it seemed deserted. But standing on the snow covered ground in bare feet, or feet wrapped in dirty filthy rags was a group of young children. They were not too old.

of kids you have ever seen sorting through an old trask barrel looking for something to eat. Like dogs looking through garbare. Whenever they found something the others would try to take it affect away from the finder. Jeeing a sight such as this has left an indelible mark upon my memory. And all of the men with me who also witnessed this were deenly moved. Then we think of these things happening children and we can look around and see our well dressed and well fede children we should get down on our knees and thank god that we have been blessed to live and be able to raise children in a land such as ours. This must be why an individual like Danny Kaye devotes so much time trying to alleviate the suffering of children throughout the world. We has seen how some kids are treated and he has witnessed the suffering that many have gone through, and because of this he devotes his time and his efforts to helping them. Te can never look at child and passione of them off as being unimportant. We never know what there is in that child that so eday could make him or her great. The story is told of the buke of Bergundy in the 11th century. He was a great knight and warrior of his time. He was about to go off on a campaign. We had a baby hay who was his immediate heir. and before he departed, he asked his Parons and nobles to come and to swear their loyalty to the son. He wanted them to swear that they would look after him in e event his father was killed. All of them came and knelt before the little beby in their royal and recal costumes. One crest baron knelt before the child and as he did he smiled. The Duke asked the baron why he was smiling and he reclied, "The child is so little," "Yes", said the Tuke, "He's little- but he'll grow." And he did indeed grow. He grew to become the man known as William the Conqueror of ingland. In every child to the possibilities for good and evil. It is up to the marents, to the teachers, and to the Sunday School teachers to see that all of the notentials for good are brought forth from each child. To stifle them or to let them so untapped is as much a sin as to lead a child into evil ways. You and I as parents, as grandwarents, as uncles and aunts, and brothers and sisters, and cousins, and any other kind of relationship to any child, owe these children a debt. The debt of being raised in a good Chriatian atmosphere. The debt of bringing forth of the good qualities that can possibly be extracted from every . .ld. We owe this debt not only to the children, but to our nation, to ourselves and to 'od. The writer of Proverbs summed it all up when he said, "Instruct a child in the way he should go, and when he grows old he will not leave it." "ay we each press on with the help of 'nd. Ict us pray.

Call to Worship: Come, and let us walk in the light of the Lord. He will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in His paths.

Call to Confession: Seek the Lord, while He may be found; call upon Him while He is near: Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return to the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. Let us seek His forgiveness an prayer.

Lord, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Christ, have mercy upon us. Christ, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us.

Assurance of Pardon: The Lord redeems the life of His people. For maximum as the heavens are high above the earth, so great is His steadfast love toward those who fear Him, None of those who seek His forgiveness will He cast out.

Text: Psalm 91; He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

During orle war II a regiment of British troops under the command of a very religious and devout man, was making preparations to go into battle.

Before they departed at zero hour this regimental commander asked the men to bow their heads and repeat the 91st Psalm in prayer. After this they moved out and encountered the enemy in battle. When the battle was over it was discovered that not one man in the regiment had been killed. Not one single one. This is simply a true illustration of complete faith.

REPEAT

A true illustration of complete faith.

The words of this Psalm may be rather strange sounding to us in this modern day and age. It starts with a sentence that seems rather impossible. He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." Strange talk indeed. Where is the secret place of the mostHigh? And how can we possibly dwell there? The Ps-lmist must have had in mind the same ing that we say and think today. God dwells in us, and if we abide in Him, He in turn abides in us and therefore we dwell in the secret place of the most High.

There is much meat and much substance to this Psalm. It gives us much to console us when we are running a little low in our faith. The wording of it is so beautiful. He shall cover thee with His feathers and under His wings shalt thou trust. This is a rather visible illustration to most of us and we can almost visualize God as stretching out His wings to enfold us as a mother hen does to protect her brood. For He shall give His angels charge over thee to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone. Another picturesque phrase. The beauty of this Psalm is tremendous. Yet in its 16 short verses it gives us the qualities of God. What God can do for us if we believe. And it tells how we can live our lives with confidence by having faith in God, and in turn this Faith will help to keep us from some of the tells of life.

The Psalmist expressed his faith in God in the only way he knew how. By the use of illustrations that were pertinent to him and mankind in his remain steadfast and faithful. Jesus is pointing up the fact that if we remain steadfast and faithful we will bear much fruit. And isn't this truth? Can we do anything for the kingdom if we are slip shod about it? Can we be about our Fathers business if we are fired up one day and indifferent the next? Of course we can't. We must have the work of God imprinted on our lives as well as out hearts. We need to be continually aware that we are to be living and doing the work of God however and whenever we can. This is the true meaning of the word abide. It is more than a living under God's shadow. It is doing and being. Remaining steadfast and faithful each day of our lives.

He tells us, "Abide in me and I in you." And, "He who abides in me and I in him, he it is who bears much fruît." Now here we get the full impact of the word abide.

Then we have the word shadow. We all know what a shadow is. The word as it is used in this and other Psalms, and elsewhere in the Bible for that matter, is used in the archaic, outdated meaning. The meaning was to shelter or to protect. This meaning may seem strange to us, but to the Hebrews God was a me ch larger God, He was more powerful, more to be feared and much greater than anything else. We perhaps do not think of God as being quite as large, and quite as all powerful as the Hebrews did. Possibly we are taking God too much for granted because of this. The love and obedience toward God was very great by these people. All we need to do is look at our own country and we can see how deeply we love God. We have trouble not only filling our churches but in filling the nulpits of these churches. Thy? Mainly because the God we worship and love is such a loving God that He is going to forgive us no matter what we do. We have no need to live the Godly life, the so called good life. But the Christian life, the Godly life is something that must be lived as close to God as we can get. In this respect I think our Hebrew friends had the right idea. They were as true to their God as they could be, when they were following Him. But their trouble was that thay made Him a God of rules and regulations after a while, and this was perhaps as bad if not worse than the God people make of Him today. But getting back the the snadow, we find that this God was so vast, so large that His shadow was protection day and age. But the Psalm is more than just pretty words and picturesque statements. It is telling truths that apply to us as well as those people who first . 1rd it and read it.

The three basic words of the first verse are dwelleth, abide and shadow. Each of them is saying something complete. Not a half statement but a complete statement. Dwelleth is a rather strange word to us. But quite simply it is the word we know as dwell dressed up in old English style. According to Webster dwell means to abide, and here we are using one of our other words, to abide as a permanent resident. So this leads us to think that here the Psalmist was talking about a permanent relationship between us and God, and not just a temporary one. We all know what it is to be permanent residents. We are all permanent residents of a certain house in a certain place. We don't live here today and in the house across the street tomorrow and another exe the next day. This is exagerated to be sure, but it is used merely to prove the use of the word dwell. How if we dwell or are permanent residents in the secret place of God, then God is as the ralmist said. We have the complete faith that He will be with us in all things. But we must remain faithful to Him and dwell with Him. This is the only stipulation that we are given. He that dwelleth. Then follows what bolief and faith in God will do for us in our lives.

Then we have the word abide, it is also means to dwell, but one of its other meanings is to remain steadfest or faithful, and to continue in a certain condition. In this instance it would be to continue in the condition of faith. Not to just here faith to see us through a certain crisis, but to have faith in all things. In every circumstance of life. In everything that comes our way. This is the faith the Pselmist is telking about. An abiding faith, a continuing faith. A faith that is complete and full, a faith that is there no matter what.

Then if we look at the word abide rather closely we can detect that it has a familiar ring about it. The familiarity comes from the Gospel of John.

Jesus used the word abide 9 times in the first 10 verses of the 15th chapter.

for 1968. This is the message for all time. Let us accept this truth and this message, and let us begin to use this faith in our lives if we haven't done so fore. Perhaps we have somehow or other gotten off the track and lost our way and some of our faith. But we can get back in the groove if we seek God. When the struggles of life overtake us, and the burden of life itself seems to hang like a weight around us, let us take to the Scripture, and search until we find this beautiful Psalm 91. "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lotd, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God; in Him will I trust." Let us pray.

enough. The Hebrew people only needed the shadow of God to fall on them and this was their security. This is faith that is great. This is the kind of faith that each of us should possess. We can if we accept God and His promises.

The first verse of this Psalm would read as follows if we substituted the other words for dwells, abides and shedow.

He that is a permanent redident in the secret place of the most High, shall remain steadfast and faithful under the shelter and protection of the Almighty. Now perhaps this isn't as poetic as the Psalm itself, but nevertheless it makes the meaning as clear as it is possible to do. It shows us that we need to put all our faith and all our trust in God and He will take care of us.

Most of our illustrations of faith always seem to come from experiences of war or fighting. Perhaps this is because God never seems closer than when one is under fire. I am sure that many of our men here this morning can agree with this and I also felt this way. There are not too many examples that are given by civilians either because of a reluctance to talk about it or a desire to remain anonymous. But I am sure that each one of us here, has at one time or another had an experience that showed us what faith is and what it can do. According to a story written about General Dwight Risenhower, when he had watched the armada of ships and planes leave for France to start D* Day, he saluted them and then prayed. Afterward he explained to a reporter, "There comes a time when you have done all that you can possibly do, when you have used your braind, your training, and your technical skill, when the die is cost, and events are in the hands of God- and there you have to leave them. " Unquote. This is a good example of faith. Leave things in the hands of God. This is what the Psalmist was tryin to say and perhaps his message was lost on his hearers as most of our messages fall on deaf ears in our world today . But we need to listen and we need to hear the words of faith. The tensions of this life and all around us, makes it imperative that we have something to hang on to. Someone to care about us. This something is faith and the somene is God. "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." This, the message

Text: Isaiah 6:9,10 Jer. Bible "Go and say to this people, 'Hear and hear again, but do not understand; see and see again, but do not perceive.' Make the heart of this people gross, its ears dull; shut its eyes, so that it will not see with its eyes, hear with its ears, understand with its heart, and be converted and healed."

In each of the Gospels we read the parable of the sower. In Matthew it is found inxitant in a much more expanded version. At the very end of it Jesus makes the statement, "He who has ears, let him hear." Then follows a question by the disciples, "Why do you speak in parables?" ANNIXINAMENTATE The answer Jesus gives is an expansion of the prophecy of Isaiah which we read as scripture this morning. Isaiah had spoken what God had told him to say. His meassage was, "Go and say to this people. 'Hear and hear again, but do not understand; see and see again, but do not perceive.' Dake the heart of this people gross, its ears dull; shut its eyes, so that it will not see with its eyes, hear with its ears, understand with its heart, and be converted and healed."

think back a few months when the snow was piled high on the front street and we were unable to have church. Now everything is green and there is nothing left to give an indication of winter and its toll. A week or so ago we were in the midst of a horrible disaster. Many things have been swept away and changes have been made in lives and people. A few more weeks and the everything will be almost back to normal, thus hiding what was a horrible nightmare to many. Not too long ago a veteran of the Normandy invasion went back to France to re-visit the scenes of that historic battle. The pictures that were shown, hid the terrible destruction of life and land that took place on that day of June 6, 1944, But 25 years or so can overcome a lot of things and work a lot of changes.

Jesus came into the world and preached a new message. He taught not only of the love of God, but of a need for change in the people of God. But he realized that people being victims of the sins of the flesh, it was difficult for them to change. It was and is a tremendous task to have people willingly change themselves or their lives. It is so comfortable to go along the same old track, to follow the same habits, the same customs. To impose change disrupts the continuity of things and causes an uproar wherever change is proposed. Change threatens our little kingdoms we have built for ourselves and surrounded ourselves with. Change makes us see that perhaps we have been following the wrong priorities for years and so we close our eyes. Change advocated verbally, may make us realize that too long we have been victims of the old status quo and we should be moving toward new and better ways of serving, and so we close our ears.

But the message was given long ago by a prophet of God, and is still the same today, "Hear and hear again, but do not understand; see and see again, but do not perceive." Our hearts have become gross, our ears dull; we shut our eyes so we do not see, close our ears, so we do not hear, and we close our hearts because we do not want to understand, and so we cannot be converted and healed."

I have served approximately 8 individual chaurches during the last 6 years, in varied capacities. In each of them, when it became known that I was contemplating going to seminary, invariably somethose one from that congregations would express a wish that I would not change or that I would not let Seminary change me. Their fears were grounded in the fact that some of the later seminary graduates have been rather radical, and their fear was that I should turn this way. So I entered seminary with the thought that I did not intend to change. But, I have found that this is impossible to do. I do not mean that I am changed into a radical or have radical ideas. I merely mean that I find myself continually changing. I find myself becoming more conservative in my thinking, and becoming more fundamental in my viewpoints. My message is still the same, but it seems to revolve more and more around the one basic principle of Christ, and that is, we must change. We must be converted, and converted merely means to change. We must be changed and only then can we be healed. Everything else is secondary. All of the works, and all of the efforts in all of the churches comes second to the command and the demand that we individually change, or turn around.

You yourselves have changed and are changing. I have noted a difference in both of our congregations. I sense a desire to continue to change and to become much more than just people coming to church out of habit. This is what Jesus demands of us in our lives. He demands that we must change, we must turn from the old and make the changes in our lives and in our churches that need to be made.

Today as we once again gather around the Lord's table, we are reminded that our Saviour gave himself for us, so that we may have the forgiveness of our sins. Coming to the Lord's table, should work a change in each of us. We should come here with all of our old selves intact; all of our sins, all of our problems and cares; all of the things that keep us from being true followers of our Master. But, after we have eaten of the body and blood of our Saviour, we should leave new creations. A Renewed in body and in spirit. Changed individuals.

I heard Bob Harrington the chaplain of Bourbon Street, on the radio the other night. He was telling of a recent visit to Viet Nam. He said he was riding in a cab and the miriver was a Buddhist. He learned this from questioning him. He asked the man why he was not a Christian and the man answered that if it was good to be a Christian, just as it was good to be a Buddhist, then man he would become a Christian Buddhist. Mr. Harrington said he explained this was not possible, but they could discuss the merits of each religion, and perhaps in that way the driver would understand the difference between the two religions.

Their dialogue went something like this:

Buddha was born of God. So was Jesus.

Buddha was raised in a religious atmosphere. So was Jesus.

Buddha went about doing good for people. So did Jesus.

Buddha died. So did Jesus.

Buddha was buried. So was Jesus.

But here Mr. Harrington said, "Well, what else can you say about Buddha?"

The driver answered, nothing."

Mr. Harrington then said, "Well, Jesus didn't stay in that grave, he arose and is living even today."

The driver answered, "Buddha hasn't done that yet." W.F. AGE STILL WARTING

This is what also what being changed means. It means that we individually accept this Jesus as our own personal Saviour. It means that we acknowledge him as the risen and alive Lord of our lives. We cannot do this as a group, nor can we let the fellow sitting next to us in the pew accept him for us. This is something we must do individually.

When we accept him as the risen Lord, as the Saviour who died for me personally, then we have indeed changed. Then our eyes are opened and we can see. We can see that to be a follower of Him we must be doing his will. Then are our ears opened, and we not only hear his voice, but we seek to hear his voice coming through others in His house each Sunday. Then are our hearts opened and we give not only of ourselves, but we give of what we have to give, out of love for our Saviour. This is the change that must take place, that Jesus and the prophet Isaiah spoke about. This is the change that can only take place when our eyes our ears, our hearts, and all of our beings are willing to come to Him and accept Him as wax the one who worked our salvation by His death and resurrection.

Come with me now to the throne of Grace, and let us seek not only forgiveness, but open eyes, ears, hearts and change.

WELLONE WISTORI 1.40 MA F.

Prince of Peace." Here is a prophecy of something to come in the future. But it is not merely a form of fortune telling, or a study in astrology, or the giving of a horoscope. It is a prophecy sent from God, through one of His servants, and as such it is a prohecy of what God will do for His people. He is speaking through this prophet and telling all who will listen that He, God, will lift them out of their darkness. That He will take away their despair, and take away the need to call upon the dead for help. That there is no longer a need to seek out horoscopes before making a move. This was his prophecy of sending a Messiah.

It fell on deaf ears because it was a prediction of something in the future. But for you and I it is a prophecy that has been fulfilled. It is a past event. The Messiah as far as prophecy is concerned has come and gone. But the Messiah as seen in the person of Jesus Christ, is still a present event. He is not dead and buried somewhere, to be forgotten until the end of the world. But instead, He is alive and working in the world and in the hearts and lives of those who accept Him. He is the reason for those who call themselves Christians to throw off this foolishness of searching horoscopes, and dream books. and consulting fortune tellers., spiritualists and so forth. There is nothing wrong with looking at a horoscope as a joke, but when we start taking them seriously and will not make a move until we see what Jeane Dixon has to say, then we are in grave danger of having other Gods. We are turning our backs upon Winxwing He provides for all our needs and who gives us what we need in due season. He has promised us through his Son that He would not forget us. Jesus said, "And Lo I am with you always even to the end of the world." He promised to be with us in all things, in all circumstances, in all of life. He meant that if we lean on him He will provide us with all we need. God prophecied through Isaiah about those who laoked elsewhere for their help, "They will look to the earth, but belihold distress, darkness, the gloom of anguish; and they will be thrust into utter darkness." Let us look to God, for all our needs. THICK

And Samuel asked Saul, "My have yor disturbed me by bringing me up?" And Saul related how God had turned from him, and would not answer him by dreams or prophets and so as a last resort he had sought him through this witch. Sammel told him that he should not be asking him what was going to happen, since when he was alive he had predicted this would happen and now it was merely a fulfillment of God's prophecy. Saul was now completely terrified, for Samuel then related how tomorrow Saul and his sons would be killed by the Philistines, and his words were, "Tomorrow you will be with me." And it did indeed come to pass.

Here is a very vivid account of someone searching into the world beyond to contact the dead. When were beleived to have a supernatural knowledge, which was desired by the living. But instead of receiving enlightenment or good news, Saul was the recipient of bad news and of the fate he was to endure. As Isaiah had prophesied, "They will look to the earth, but behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish; and they will be thrust into thick darkness." This Saul found out for himself, and his discovery should be enough to make anyone realize that we are only looking in vain when we seek to know the future. We are resorting to primitive superstition, to seek answers, from spiritualists, stars, Extraction mediums, witches or others. We are searching in the world of darkness for light, where no light may ever be found.

The prophecy of Isaiah did not stop with the end of chapter 8. His prophecy continues on into the next chapter and there we read that in a later time, a latter day, the people who have walked in darkness will have seen a great light. For to us a child is born, to us a son is given; and the government will be upon his shoulder, and his name will be called "Wonderful Counselor, Nighty God, Everlasting Father,

Should they consult the dead on behalf of the living?

We can read a very well known story in I Samuel the 28th chapter of Saul and his use of a spitualist. Samuel had died and Saul had run the wizards and the mediums out of the land. Saul was encamped with his army ready to do battle with the Philistines, and when he saw the size of the Philistine army he became worried, and afraid. He tried to get an answer from God, but God did not seem to hear him, at least he did not answer. He didn't get an answer through his dreams or through the prophets either, and so he became doubly concerned.

Finally he told his servants to go and find a womanx who was a medium, that he could go and question. One of his servants told him, "There is a medium at Endor."

So Saul disguised himself so he would not he recognized, and he took two men with him and they arrived at this woman's place at night. He told her, "Divine for me a spirit, and bring up for me whomever I shall name to you." But the woman protested and she told him, "Now look here mister, Don't you know what King Saul has done? Why he has driven all of the wizards and mediums out of town. Why are you trying to trap me and thus cause my death?" But Saul answered, "No punishment or harm will come to you, I swear by the Lord."

So the woman being assured her life was safe, asked him who he wanted brought up. He said, "Bring up Samuel for me." When the woman saw Samuel, she was terrified and she cried out, "You are Saul. Why have you deceived me?" "You are Saul." But Saul tried to console her and reassure her that she should have no fear. He asked, "Who do you see?" She answered, "I see a God coming up out of the earth."

Saul asked, "What is his appearance? What does he look like?" She xx told him, "An old man is coming up and he is wearing a rove." And immediately Saul knew that it was Samuel, and he bowed his head to the ground and did obesiance to him.

There are mediums who specialize in contacting the dead, and some of them came to the fore when the late Bishop James Fike was supposedly speaking to his departed son. There are literally hundreds of books to be found on almost any bookshelf, telling about your future, or what the stars hold for you. Yes, you will even find one on my bookshelf, but it is there merely because this book tries to explain away some of this business and to look at it from a Christian standpoint. This book was the motivation for this sermon, and I believe I have discovered that because of the depth of this subject, I cannot cover it in one sermon. So today and I shall present half of it, and next week, as the old time movie serials used to say, "I shall present the smashing climax to this story."

To this subject as well as any other, we must ask the question, "What does the Bible have to say about it?" Well, we must look at the Old Testament as well as the New. So today let us look at the Old Testament. The prophets spoke about sorcerers, magicians, soothsayers, and mediums. THEXENSENT In fact many of the old Hebrew laws prohibited the use of magic, or of magic formulations and incantations. Isaiah spoke against these people, as we read in our scripture this morning. He said, when people say to you to consult the mediums and the wizards who chirp and mutter, should not the people consult their God?

"Whitsh? Or What?"

Text: Isaiah 8:19-22 "And when they say to you, "Consult the mediums and the wizards who chirp and mutter," should not a people consult their God? Should they consult the dead on behalf of the living? To the teaching and the testimony! Surely for this word which they speak there is no dawn. They will pass through the land, greatly distressed and hungry; and when they are hungry, they will be enraged and will curse their king and their God, and turn their faces upward; and they will look to the earth, but behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish; and they will be thrust into thick darkness."

"Today you must exert extra caution with wehicles, tools or flammable or breakable materials. Hyrrying the job means that you will likely have to do the job over."

"A restless week opens with interesting people, something new to consider while working. Take good companions with you wherever you go."

"Today is the day to sell a coherent plan. Proclaim yourself and your merits. Evening should see you with some news to celebrate."

What does all of this talk amount to? Well if you haven't guessed by now, these are some predictions in the column, "Your Horoscope" from last Sundays Patriot News, which is written by Jeans Dixon. Miss Dixon who predicted the assassination of John F. Kennedy correctly is considered an authority, and so perhaps you should listen to her. Or perhaps you are a follower of Carroll Righter who writes for the Chicago Daily News an example of his predictions for instance for Friday January 16, for all Leo's born between July 23 and August 22; "Act in a postive way. Be off to the social with charming people and have a delightful and profitable time."

Silly? Perhaps. But according to Editor and Publisher, 1200 daily newspapers in the United States alone, publish horoscopes, as compared with only 100 papers 20 years ago. Business firms employ, actually employ, full time astrologers. In 1969 Lloyd Cope was retained by Abraham and Strauss department store in New York as its official astrology consultant. A member of the NEW York stock exchange, "likes to conclude important business deals at three A.M. because of his astrologer's counsel,"

PartII

"Witch? Or What?"

Text: Ephesians 5:11,13, "Take no part in the unfruitful works of darkness, but instead expose them." "But when anything is exposed by the light it becomes visible, for anything that becomes visible is light."

John 3:19-21 "indicate And this is the judgement, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one who does evil hates the light, and does not come to the light, lest his deeds should be exposed. But he who does what is true comes to the light, that it may be clearly seen that his deeds have been wrought in God."

Last week you will recall, the we talked about Wizards, witches, mediums, spiritualists and so on and we looked at the story of Saul and the witch of Endor. This week we will look at this subject from a New Testament standpoint.

There is a story found in the Gospels about Jesus going up into a mountain and taking Peter, James and John with him. The story relates that while he was there, Elijah and Moses appeared to Him and Jesus talked with them. The disciples eyes were heavy with sleep Luke tells us, but they remained awake and saw this event take place. Afterward they mentioned to Jesus that 3 booths should be built there for Jesus, Moses and Elijah. And a voice came out of the cloud acclaiming Jesus as His Son.

This story we all know as the transiguration, because of the report that Jesus appearance was changed before their very eyes. But more importantly it gives us a clue to the fact that there is a world beyond ours. Perhaps this world never became more real to man, than when Jesus came along. Jesus spoke to Satan, the devil, he never gave in to him, nor did he ever assume that this being did not have power of his own. But Jesus personally refused to give in to him.

Jesus also showed the people of his day the reality of demons. He was recognized by these demons as well, when they cried out to him on one occasion, "Jesus of Nazareth, what have you to do with us? Have you come to destroy us?" But we are too enlightened in our day to believe that there are evil spirits alive and active in the world today.

Jesus also dealt with dead people. His transfiguration is one example and Lazarus, the man who was the only support of his widowed mother being carried out of town for burial, and Jarius's daughter are also examples of Jesus dealings with dead people. He had the power to reach into the world beyond and snatch back those, whom he willed. The very day he died, many of the dead arose and walked around Jerusalem. He Himself came back from the grave, and as the disciple John said, "Our eyes saw him, our ears heard him, and our hands handled him." He appeared to them, coming into a room that was closed and bolted, without making an entrance into through a window or door. Yet he was of similar substance as we because Thomas felt his hands and feet for the nail wounds, and the spear wound in his side.

After his ascension, Paul saw him on his way to Damascus. Stephen saw him before he met his death as a martyr. Faul delivered a girl sorceress from the exploitation of her owners, and the owners raised such a fuss, then the apostles were arrested. A man named Elymas another sorcerer, was trying to undo the work of Paul and Barnabas, and Paul struck him blind for a period of time.

You may be thinking that all of these tales are lovely little stories. You may say they are myths and rather incredible, but are they less believable than Jeane Dixon, and her predictions of what the stars and planets hold for your destiny today or in the future? Would you instead believe in Anton LaVey's church of Satan in San Francisco, and ridicula the idea of Satan in Jerusalem at the time of Jesus, or of Satan in the life of Hitler or Stalin, or Satan alive and doing businessin in the lives of thousands of people today?

There is an unseen world and you can choose to believe it or not. But it is a world that contains not only the presence of God, but the influence of Satan as well. The goal of Satan is to make a mockery of the existence of God. He rules in a kingdom of darkness, in a climate or perhaps I should say, an area, that is quite different and apart from that of God. Jesus called Satan a "liar, and the father of lies."

Paul admonishes us, "Take no part in the unfruitful works of darkness, but instead expose them." Show them up for what they are, bring them out into the light, for as he goes on, "When anything is exposed by the light it becomes visible, for anything visible is light."

point and look at it. I am sure we are all aware that Jeane Dixon predicted the assassination of John F. Kennedy. This event made her world famous and so when she makes a pronnuncement, it is looked upon as being having a good possibility of coming true. You may choose to believe that she has certain powers that permit her to forsee the future, but I for one believe that she is no better than any other fortune teller or reader of tea leaves, or coffee grounds, or crystal balls. My pet theory about her as well as all mediums is one that cannot be proven, but there has been considerable investigation done along these lines and the area is still being researched.

either good or bad, but thinking makes it so." The author of Proverbs he writes, "As  thinketh in his heart, so is he." Jesus when he had healed a paralytic man, was aware of the scribes talking about this "blasphemy", and we read that he knew their thoughts and said to them, "Why do you think evil in your hearts?" Now what all of this amounts to, is that it is a possibility to transfer thoughts both good and evil to the minds of people who are receptive to them.

Have you ever thought about a certain person you have not seen for sometime, only to have them appear shortly thereafter? I am talking about persons who are still alive. Many times I have thought about a certain sports figure, or a kovie star, and pondered that I have not seen that individual in a long while, and perhaps that very day will

Now if this is possible with words, why then could it not be possible with thoughts to imprint on someone's mind, someone who is so inclined, to kill a certain individual? Now I am not saying that Jeane Dixon deliberately sent out her thoughts to have president Kennedy killed. But I am saying that innocently her thoughts may have triggered this very act.

She has been given credit for predicting the recent flood and has said we will have another one. You or I could predict things such as this but no one would listen, because we do not have the fame or notoriety to be heard. But what is so often overlooked about these people, is the fact that they merely use logic for their reasoning. For instance what ix would be a very good prediction as far as weather goes in certain areas in June? Why hurricanes of course. So what is the logical aftermath of hurricanes? Flooding and destruction of property by water and wind. So any fortune teller worth his salt is going to predict there will be a flood at this time of the year, and it is even a safe bet to predict there will be one 20 days following the first flood as she has done.

So really there is no mystery connected to it, and she is not really connected to a source that gives her this information. At least I do not believe it to be God telling her these things, and I might concede that Satan is perhaps involved. (EVEN THE SHE IS REPORTED TO DE VERY RELIGIOUS.

John I believe speels this out very fully in the 3rd chapter of hid Gospel. "And this is the judgement, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light." Could we not say this is still true today? Could we not say just from our observation of life around us, that mankind is only concerned with the quest of things out of the ordinary? It knextexts bizarre hefore it is news. It must be spectacular before it is printed or shown on TV. We are past the stage of being awed as we once were. During the historic ASTRONAUT landing of Neil Armstrong and the other men on the moon for the first time, I can recall that Shirley and I were practically glued to our seats because of the world shattering eventwtaking place before our eyes. But our children were bored more or less, because they had seen these space shots in school and it was sort of old stuff to them. Other parents have told me the same thing as well.

If it isn't completely out of the ordinary, we are not interested. So people are searching for newer and more exciting ways to spend their lives. And the unfortunate thing about all of it is, they are searching in the areas of darkness instead of looking in the light.

All of the evill in the world is mostly done at night.

Most robberies are at night, most muggings are at night. As soon as the daylight flades, all of the wirds wierdoe's seem to crawl out of the woodwork. Awhy is this so? Because under cover of darkness, wakny things can be hidden. Again John says, "For every one who does evil hates the light, and does not some to the light, lest his deeds should be exposed. But he who does what is true comes to the light, that it may be clearly seen that his deeds have been wrought in God."

Dr. Paul J. Achtemeier thexNewxTestament professor of New Testament at Lancaster Theological Seminary has said, that in the next 10 or 20 years, the biggest foe the church will have to fight, is not people dropping out or failing to join. But it will be astrology, horoscopes, Satanism, withcraft and all of the other works of darkness. I believe we need to begin choosing up sides, and I beleive we need to begin to day. I do not think we can afford to wait 10 or 20 years until we are completely in the midst of this dilemma. We must act now. We must choose whether we will seek the light which is Jesus Christ and His kingdom, or whether we will choose the darkness, which is Satan and his kingdom.

If we can look upon horoscopes and star readings and all of this jazz as merely so much baloney, and not put any trust or stock in them, then perhaps we can weather the storm. But the real danger lies in the fact that someone will tell us in a horoscope to looks out today because tragedy may strike, and we step off the curb and just gaz miss getting hit, and so Jeane Dixon was right. From then on we are followers of Jeane Dixon and not Jesus Christ. This may be a little strong perhaps, but I believe we need to follow wherever our allegiance lies. If it lies in the kingdom of Light, then we must follow Jesus. If we seek to follow the kingdom of Darkness, then we will put our faith in Jeane Dixon and all of her ilke.

"But no man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You annot serve God and Mammon," saith the Lord. Will it be Witch? Or What? Will it be God? You make the choice. Call to Worship: From whence does our help cpme? Our help comes from God who made heaven and earth. Call to Confession: We cannot truly praise God unless we come to Him in humble confession. Let us herefore together confess our weaknesses and shortcomings before Him. Let us pray. Lord, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Christ, have mercy upon us. Christ, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Assurance of Pardon: Jesus said, "Whatever you ask the Father in my name, he may give it to you. We have asked forgiveness in His name and so we can have the assurance that God will grant each one forgiveness, for He is a God of Mixxward Truth. Text: II Feter 1:12,13,20b,21 "Therefore I intend always to remind you of these things, though you know them and are established in the truth you have. I think it right, as long as I am in this body, to arouse you by way of reminder. No prophecy of Scripture is a matter of one's own interptretation, because no prophecy ever came by the impulse of man, but men moved by the Holy Spirit spoke from God."

A small boy s mother, after a rock battle had ensued between he and another boy, remarked, "When the other boy started throwing stones at you, why didn't you come to me instead of throwing them back at him.?" To which the boy answered, "what good would it do to tell you? You couldn't hit the side of a garage."

Now this is the same story I heard as a boy, except the word barn was used in place of garage. Things must be kept up to date, and merely changing a word does this, but basically it is the same old story over, and over again.

This is what Peter was telling those to whom he wrote when he said, "Therefore I intend always to remind you of these things, though you know them and are established in the truth you have. I think it right as long as I am in this body, to arouse you by way of reminder." He was telling them, "I am giving you more of the same, and I will continue to do so since this is what you need. This is the food that is required for your soul. This is the message that has been laid upon me by Almighty God. So listen, and listen again, because it will always be the same old story, and more of the same as long as I am able to preach and as long as God gives me life and breath."

The late Franklin Roosevelt in one of his speeches against war used the phrase, "I must tell you again and again and again, factor war." This is what we must all do and that is to not only hear the message of God again and again and again, but to tell it again and again and again and again. The story may be old, and may be time worn. The phrases may be well used, but the message is still the same, "Man was mired in his sin, and God came to earth in the form of a man, and took our sins upon himself and suffered and died on the cross in our place. And He is now risen from the dead, thus conquering once and for all man's last mortal enemy, death, and because He lives, we too can live eternally with our Father.

I shared this illustration with the group last Wednesday evening and I would ask them to please bear with us, because this needs repeating.

(Illustration of "Not tonight.")

This is a sad commentary of life, that too often we put off until tomorrow, and too often tomorrow never comes. And there is one other sad note about this, and it is the fact that there are many church members who are regular worshipping members, who have never come to the place where they have made a personal acceptance of Jesus Christ. But here again, it is not completely their fault, since too many times this commitment has been played down, and the role of just coming to church and giving regularly has been played up. But my friends it takes more than that to be a true follower of our liaster, It requires that you and I individually, come to Him, acknowledging that we are sinners, and asking Him to take our sins upon Himself, and then asking that He live in and through us.

But there is one other thing Peter is saying to these people that is equally important, and must not be overlooked. He said, "No prophecy of scripture is a matter of one's own interpretation, because no prophecy ever came by the impulse of man, but men moved by the Holy opirit spoke from God." He is in effect saying, that it is only by the Holy opirit sent from God, spoken through people that is true prophecy.

There was a man named Giro-lamo Savo-na-rola who lived to ITALLY in the 1400's. One of the exploits attributed to him is to attend to hear his confession and grant him absolution. As he stood by the bedside of this dying tyrant he said, "God is great, and God is good, and God is merciful, but for His forgiveness, three things are necessary on your part." "What are they Lorenzo asked?" "First you must have a lively faith in Jesus Christ, as your Saviour, and you must believe in the mercy of God. Then you must restore all of you ill-gotton wealth or charge your sons to restore it in your name." "I have that belief and faith, and I will arrange for my sons to make restitution for me," he said. "And finally you must restore the liberties of the people of Florence." At this Lorenzo became furious, and with eyes flashing anger he turned his face to the wall in refusal, as though to say, "Sooner Hell, than that."

But as history has shown, it is what Savo-naprola said that was prophecy, and what he did afterward proved it. He was able to take over the reigns of government and by his trying to instill religion and moral values in a heathen society, he was able to bring Florence to a state of almost puritanism. But he was unable to cope with all of the abuse and ridicule and attacks that came his way. Even the Fope for the Alexander the VI was one of his chief attackers. We was ex-communicated in 1497. He in turn tried to have the Pope deposed, but was minsuccessful. He was arrested, tried for heresy, tortured and hung, and then his body was burned.

Now here is an extreme example of an individual who was representing the prophecy of scripture, but not as a private interpretation. There is a danger in trying to make religion say what you want it to say. Ohristianity in too many areas has been reduced to a system of ethics. It is this, but it is more. We can see it being made to say and to suit any given situation, we want it to suit.

churches and therefore condoning in the name of Christ. We can see churches becoming private little Jesus Christ clubs, where you are only welcome if you are a member of a certain family, or you can meet a certain standard. We can see the church in many areas involved in so many other things, except the business of interpreting the word of God fearlessly, and seeking His stamp of approval on its entire operation. The question to be asked of any endeavor or venture of any church should be, "Is this being done the things with the express intent and purpose to further Christianity, or is it being done to merely serve the selfish interests of that particular congegation? I am afraid that in many areas, programs would be scrapped if placed up to the light Peter's message was first, the life and death and resurrection of Jemus Christ. He told this fearlessly and boldly to any and all people. He told of his life with this Jesus and the things he did and said. Then secondly his message was one of trying as much as possible to speak what God wanted him to say. To try not to rely on his own wisdom and knowledge, but to let God speak through him.

personally accepted this Jesus Christ and are striving to follow him in the church? Or are we instead, like many others, just nominal Christians. Lerely names on the roll who attend for one reason or another?

Can we then say that we are seeking in our daily lives to show this Jesus, by the words we speak to those around us? By the way we live? Or do we let God only try to speak thanks through the preacher on Sunday, because that is his job, and I have the and never the two shall meet?

Our lives should be different because of this Jesus Christmand our lives should be different because God is guiding our mouths and our complete beings. It may be the same old message that we hear week after week, and perhaps dressed up in new and different language, but, as Peter said, "Therefore I intend always to remind you of these things." And we also must remind others of these things. It may be more of the same, but it will be always fresh and new if shared and shown with the love of God speaking through us.

Call To Worship: Fraise the Lord! Fraise, O servants of the Lord, praise the name of the Lord! Blessed be the name of the Lord from this time forth and forevermore! tall to Confession: The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth. Christ, have mercy upon us. Chri t, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Lord, have mercy upon us. Assurance of Pardon: Almighty Goff, our heavenly Father, hath had mercy upon us, and hath giveen his only Son to die for us, and for his sake forgiveth all our sins. To them that believe on h his name, he giveth power to become Sons of God, and bestoweth upon them his Holy Spirit. He

WELL OME BUSHTORS HIND O 9: THE MARIEL

Text: John 14:6 "I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but by me."

Natthew 7:13-14, "Enter by the narrow gate; for the gate is wide and the way is easy, that leads to destruction, and those who enter by it are many."

Luke 13+25 24, "Strive to enter by the narrow door; for many, I tell you, will seek to enter and will not be able."

"I shall be telling this with a sigh Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I -I took the one less traveled by,
and that made all the difference."

This bit of verse is from the poem, "The Road Not Taken by Robert Frost." I beleive it speaks of Christianity and what is required by this religion. But I think it also is telling us that we must make a decision in life some where along the way, and that decision makes all the difference.

I have been taught that a sermon is not just for an amount of time set aside for a man to speak to a group of people, but it is to be a message from the word of God, and at the very end it gives all those who hear it a chance to make a decision. It is to leave them with a choice. So each and every week then, we are to be given a choice of something. The only real choice in the life of anyone as far as I am concerned, is the choice of whether they accept or reject Jesus Christ. Now what prompted my thoughts for this sermon, was a question put to me by one of our members. He asked me, if it was fair to feel that the Chrisitian was the only one to be saved. Was it fair to believe that all of the other people such as the Jews, many of which lead much more religious and devout lives, than many Christians, will be doomed to Hell and not have salvation? Is it fair to believe that only Christians have this salvation?

Now if you think about this, it becomes quite a question. I believe it to be a question that cannot be answered in one sermon. So I shall endeavor to lay the groundwork this Sunday, and to reach some conclusions next Sunday.

The answer I gave was that I believe God will save many others, other than Christians. But this needs to be expanded and qualified, because to xx merely say that others will be saved, leaves it hanging in mid-air. We must in this instance as in all others, search out the scriptures and seek the answer of God. We must see what the Bible tells us about this. The answer that seems to come to the forefront with this question is one of, "I don't know." But to merely say this is a cop-out, and in all fairness to the question as well as the questioner, and answer must be sought. So with this in mind let us look at the background.

The passage of scripture that is the basis for the belief of only Christians being saved, is found in John 14:6. Jesus states, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but by me." This implies and means that only through Christ can anyone be saved. Speaking strictly along these lines then, this becomes a very selfish ideal. I t excludes anyone who has not accepted Jesus Christ. To a person who accepts the unselfishness of Christianity and the unselfishness it teaches, this is intolerable. People feel and rightly so, that it is too unrealistic for the same Jesus who preached giving and sharing, to become so dogmatic about this. So to try to resplve the conflict and to cast light upon it we must search out the scriptures for the answer.

To llok at other words spoken by Jesus in Matthew 7:13 and 14 we find that he said, "Enter by the narrow gate; for the gate is wide that and the way is easy, that leads to destruction, and those who enter by it are many." Inke records this we in the 13th chapter, verse 24, "Strive to enter by the narrow door; for many, I tell you, will seek to enter and will not be able."

These are two quotations that add to the question at hand, that it is not a completely easy task to enter into the kingdom of God. We could add to it the quotation of a camel going through the needles eye more easily than a wealthy man into the kingdom and so on. But let us look instead to the basis of Christianity, and that is the roots that have come from Judaism. In Deuteronomy 11:26 we read of Roses telling the Israelites, "Behold I set before you a blessing and a curse: The blessing, if you obey the commandments of the Lord your God, and the curse if you do not obey the commandments of the Lord your God."

In Deuteronomy we read of Moses again telling the people as they are about ready to cross over the Jordan, "I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse; therefore choose life, that you and your descendents may live." In Froverbs 14:12 we read, "There is a way which seems right to a man, but its end is the way of death." In Jeremiah 21:8 we read, "And to this people you shall say: Thus says the Lord: Behold I set before you the way of life and the way of death."

These are just a few of the many verses to be found the in the Old Testament and there are also many in the New Testament dealing with the path to be walked.

In all of this can be found one thing and that is, therexis makes it is a choice that must be made by all. We are all given the opportunity to accept God or reject Him. Jesus takes told those who asked in the scripture taken from Luke that, we can not just take it for granted that we are among the elect. We must seek the narrow way, and we must live accordingly. But he also lets it be known that the gate is open.

No man is pre-condemned by God, there is always the chance to enter the Compact Mariana.

But in all of this a ce tain amount oftraining and preparation are necessary. A surgeon takes years of practice to become proficient. Football and other sports require a lot of practice and demands on time and energy. So if we are to walk the narrow road and seek Christlikeness, we must forgo the wide way and give up unChristlikeness. Renunciation is the price one pays for a worthy life such as in the sciences, the arts, in industry and in sports. Should not renunciation be the price one pays for a worthy life in Christ?

To surrender worthiness is easy for the pathway is wide, and it is so well filled, we will never lack for companions. But the true way is straight and this applies to the Jew as well as the Christian and we may even state that it applies to all other religions if one is to be a true disciple.

 written and all that had gone on before. We shall deal with that new twist next week. The Jesus showed us that there is a gate or a narrow way that leads to God. He did this with his life as well as his complete trust and faith in His Father.

So a portion of this new twist is to live our lives in a different way than is lived by others who do not believe as we.

JARDY GARTI HAM BART OUT LAST MITE OSTEOPARNIC HOST Text: Acts 2:36, "Know assuredly that God has made Him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom you crucified."

You will recall no doubt, that last week we dwelt on one aspect of Jesus Christ as being the, "only way to God the Father."

This week we will look at it from yet another aspect.

The life story of Jesus is fairly well known to most of us and therefore we need not reiterate it now. But we must look at him from the standpoint of who he was. The prophets spoke of a coming messiah, a king who would set them free from their bondage. This king would perform miraculous feats, and he would overthrow those who held the Israelites in bondage.

Then Jesus of Nazareth was born and immediately when he began to perform miraculous deeds, there were those who claimed him as the Nessiah. The more he did, the more he was aclaimed as the anointed one sent from God. This man became disliked by the religious authorities of his day and they plotted to do away with him. So he was killed, executed as a criminal. But strangely enough he did not to stay dead, for he appeared to his disciples, as well as over 500 other people as Paul tells us. He left no doubt in the minds of his followers who he was. And so was born what is a lovely legend to some, an unbelievable story to others, and the most wonderful true reality to countless others. Christianity came into being and men either risked their lives trying to defeat it, or risked their lives to further it.

The story we read as scripture this morning, is the familiar story of Peter and the disciples at Pentecost. They were accused of being drunk. But Peter arose and gave them one of the most masterful sermons ever delivered. He told them of Jesus and how have accused to the paraphrasing of this Psalm as Peter does it in Christ, then we can raise the hypothetical question, "What happens to all of the people who have walked the face of this earth and never heard the hame of Jesus, and have died not knowing him, what happens to them after death?" Supposing that a native in Africa in one of the more remote regions, lived and died without ever hearing about Jesus, and supposing this man lived a religious life as far as he was able. Would he be doomed to hell? This becomes a very deep theological question and is one that we cannot answer. The reason we cannot answer is because we do not know all of the maswers. Only God in an instance like this can make the decision. All we can do is to continue trusting in the love and the mercy of God, for all mankind, and leave the final deciscions up to him.

This does not mean that we must each go our separate way, and forget everyone else. No, that is the wrong attitude. To take an attitude such as this is very similar to taking the attitude, "I will let my children make their own decision about church when they are grown." This is a cop-out of the first order. It is a means of not asserting parental duty. By the same token we must not operate this way when we are in the midst of those who are not of our gelief.

We must at least make the effort to tell them of our belief, and give them the chance for acceptance or rejection.

Gil Stricklan, the young man I told you about with the large clock on the plane, also told another true incident in his life. This took place last December 26, on a highway heading north through New Mexico on a very dark and pitch black night. He told of having a friend who owned a piece of property in Colorado and this man lets him use it for several weeks during the winter.

He said he was driving along thinking of the fun they were going to have skiing, sledding, and enjoying the winter wonderland and just all around relaxing after traveling around the country for a year. His wife was in the back seat lying down asleep with their baby and he was driving and enjoying the feeling of having the highway all to himself late at night and speeding toward his destination. All of a sudden he got a revelation of some sort and almost as if someone else was driving the car he jerked the wheel very hard to the right, off the road completely and onto the shoulders of the road. As he did this a large truck with no lights whatsoever, hurtled past him on the blackened highway on his side of the road. Needless to say, had he remained where he was, he would have been killed in a headon collision.

It all happened so fast and he said he did not realize all of his actions, but the next thing he knew haxwaxxwaxxwaxxhax haxwaxxxxxxx his wife was pounding him on the back and shouting fight Gil, Gil, whats the matter. It was then he realized that he was leaning on the horn with one hand and waxinxxxx pounding on the steering wheel with the other and shouting at the top of his voice, "You're going the wrong way."

Do we not, as confessing Christians, have the right to say to someone who is not, "You're going the wrong way?"

Jesus tells us in John 12:26, "If anyone serves me, he must follow me." This doesn't mean going our own way, it means going the way that Jesus showed us. This doesn't mean going the way of the world, it means living and following the example of Jesus.

It is the duty of each one of us to witness for Christ and to strive to bring others into his kingdom. Now if this is selfish then I believe this is the way it must be. But our Christian duty is to live and to witness for our Saviour. It is up to the compassion and mercy of God who receives salvation without coming through Christ, but for the Christian the only choice is to speak out for Jesus. If we do this and people reject Christ, then the consequences of their rejection is upon their heads for this rejection. But if we fail to speak out for Jesus we can rest assured that Jesus will deny us in his kingdom. He tells us this in Mark 8:38, "For whoever is ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him will the son of man also be ashamed, when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels."

To those of other faiths who are outside of Christianity, we must treat them with love and concern and respect. We must pray for them and seek to show Jesus Christ in our lives, our actions and our speech. If they continue to reject him, then we have done all we can do, and God will take care of the rest. But we must never flaunt our Christianity to others, or strive to act in a selfish way, acting ad though we have salvation and everone else does not.

Everything we do toward others must be motivated out of love for them, even as God has shown his love for us through Jesus Christ. We should seek to share with them,

"Beneath the cross of Jesus I fain would take my stand,
The shadow of a mighty rock within a weary land;
A home within the wilderness, a rest upon the way,
From the burning of the noon-tide heat and the burden of the day.

"Upon that cross of Jesus mine eye at times can see

The very form of one who suffered there for me;

And from my smitten heart with tears two wonders I confess,

The wonders of His glorious love and my own workhlessness.

I take O cross thy shadow for my abiding place;

I ask no other sunshine than the sunshine of Nim face;

Content to let the world go by, to know no gain nor loss,

My sinful self my only shame, My glory all the cross. Amen."

Text: Hebrews 11:3 "By faith we understand that the world was created by the word of God, so that what is seen was made out of things which do not appear."

(Illustration of brain damaged child and faith.)

Jesus once said, (Out of the mouths of babes, thou has brought perfect praise." Here indead is strong faith as exhibited in the very simple life of a brain damaged child.

H.L. Mencken once said, "Faith may be defined briefly as the illogical belief in the occurrence of the improbable." "Faith?"

Jeers Mark Twain, "That's the calm assurance shown by a Christian when he has four aces in his hand." "Faith," answers the proverbial schoolboy, "Faith is believing what you know aint so."

A minister of a Lutheran church tells of a couple who attended his church, and the wife wanted to join the congregation, but her husband would not, because he said, "I cannot accept anything without scientific proof." This minster pointed out to him that with church membership, you commit yourself on the same kind of proof that is used in science. This proof is not always a tangible thing or a sure fire thing you can see or feel, but it is based on ax high probability. Several years ago this kind of questioning was called the Faith Crisin. As in many areas I am probably several years behind in my schedule. Lost preachers several years ago were preaching about this "Faith Crisis" while I was not. I believed at the time that a few more years would be required to see what the final outcome would be.

Incidentally I attended a week session on this Faith Crisis back in 1968 or 69 at Lancaster Seminary, and one of the professors and his wife taught this class. The wakker whole emphasis of this class was that if you could not prove something conclusively with physical evidence it never happened. Only things that can be proven can be accepted. To carrying this argument to its proper conclusion we must discredit most of what has happened in the old Testament and all of the New Testament. We cannot go to a certain spot and show the Garden of Eden, so it never happened. We cannot produce the Ark so the story of Noah and the flood is not true.

We cannot prove the parting of the Red Sea, so that story is unbelietable, and so on for all of the Old Testament. When we turn to the New Testament we must say the same thing. We cannot prove the mirrarles of Jesus and so they are untrue. We cannot prove that he did all that was written of Him so the story cannot be believed. Even his resurrection cannot be proved and so it is untrue.

Now this is a good example of the thinking of a certain portion of people from a few years ago. But this thinking has spread and today we have many more of these people in the Christian church than were present a few years ago. Our trip to England and to Scotland was made for the purpose of seeing the church in another setting. It turned out to be a real eye opener in many respects. There are two glaring things we learned about the churches there.

First we learned that in the church of Scotland and in the church of Ingland there is declining membership. I should point out that the church of Scotland is basically the Presbyterian church. The church of Ingland is the inglican church or the National church. Both of these bodies at the present time do not include in their membership what is known as the free Churches. The free churches are made up of the Congregationalists, the Baptisits, the Nethodists, the Pentecostals and other groups. The free churches for the most part are not declining as rapidly as the National churches and perhaps for good reason. But that is quite another story. But is taking place in the National church is that approximately only 2 to 5% of the population is attending church. Nost of those attending are women, the men leave religion up to the women. In surveys made of the man and woman on the street, of all those questioned, approximately 10% stated a belief in God but a disbelief in the church as being worthwhile. So mix armed with these statistice the churches are saying, "We may have empty pews, but so do all of the churches. And just because our membership is decling we must point to those who attend and say that they are the real Christians, and the unbelievers have been swept out of the church. And since 10% of the population outside of the church professes a belief in God, out church is alive outside of its building and cathedrals and there is no real need for concern."

So with this, most clergymen we met had a sort of lack-a-daisical attitude toward the church and are not taking measures to improve their membership or increase it in any way. In fact several of them expressed a belief that the church must now sit back and wait for another John Wesley or John Knox to come and lead the people back to religion.

countries involves the clergy. In many instances due to lack of members the churches cannot afford to pay living livable wages. This has necessitated the ministers becoming involved in outside occupations to supplement their income. In most instances the work they are involved in is in the area of Bocial work. For many clergymen this is working in hospitals or institutions. One man in particular Bordon Harris is working as a clinical psychologist in a mental institution, and he made the remark that the church merely supplies him with bread for his family. He also stated that he looks forward to Sunday morning since it affords him the opportunity to speak to a group of people for 20 minutes without being interrupted. The church is merely a means to an end and the end is his getting a degree and having no need of the church.

A remark he made to our entire group which really shocked all us was, "that God does not nor cannot speak or work through an inflividual."

"God can only operate through a group and never through one person."

Now this should give you some idea of what the Faith Crisis is. It is a crisis that is growing in our nation just as well as in England and Scotland. It is a crisis that is brought about by men seeking to solve problems by through man and either leaving God out of it altogether or forgetting Him.

Just a very few minutes ago what did we do in this church? We professed our faith. We said we believe in God the Father Almighty, we said we believed in Jesus Christ His Son. We said we believed in His life, death, resurrection. We said we believed in God's church, in forgiveness of sins, in the resurrection of the body, and in life everlasting. In all of this we stated that we have faith in all of these things of God.

what (will we, or did we) ask of Ir. Everett? We asked him if he accepted Christ and was willing to work in His church. This was a profession of faith. This is what each member must be required to do. When we cease to have faith then I believe we are really going to see the Christian church go downhill in this nation as well. And the churches of ingland are predicting that we will be in the same shape they are in within 25 years.

Perhaps you have heard the story of the atheistic physics professor who wrote on the board, "God is Nowhere." The class took a break before completing its session and during the break one of the students went to the board and rearranged the letters of the word nowhere, Waxxarakaxar

We should be able to see Tod in all things and to know that he is what makes all of our religion and devotion possible. If God were like man, and had more of Hans qualities, we would probably see signs all around us of this. The trees would have little tags on them saying, "This tree belongs to God and is given by Mim." The sunset would have a cartion under it, "The Beauty and Colors contributed by Fod." But God is not confined to just some creation, He is all of it.

A little boy living near Cape Jennedy was concerned because of all the missile laminchings and moon shots, and so he told his mother before he said his prayers one night, "See, I hope they don't kill God." well contrary to the little boys belief, we cannot kill God with our technological programs in space, but we sure can kill Him in our lives and in our churches when we cease to have faith. Is we move along in our vastly sophisticated society, you and I are being called upon daily to witness to our faith.

We can do this by our love and concern for our fellow man. We can do this by trying to show others that life is worth living and that life is more than just the grabbing and acquiring of material wealth, we can do this by trying to seek strength for our daily lives, by being better church members.

But we can also be responsible for causing the faith crisis by a cynical attitude toward the Bible and what God has done for mankind. We can bring about the downfall of faith by a distrust of life in general. The future of the church lies with you and me. We can try to make faith so complex that no one can understand it and it becomes an abstract thing that once existed in the hearts and lives of church people. But we can also make it something alive, and young and beautiful, and wonderful in this church and in our lives.

Faith can be many things, but basically it is a simple belief in God and what God can do. Ferbaps this is best illustrated with a little story of almost childlike faith, that really happened to a a Christian in a strange city.

(Illustration of man and being short money for train)

Simple? Yes, but isn't it beutiful to hear of such faith? It is faith  such as this that can lead us to a complete trust in the unknown that lies before each of us, and it can lead us to say.

"My faith looks up to Thee, Thou Lamb of Calvary, Saviour Divine:

Now hear me while I pray, Take all my guilt away, And let me from this day be wholly Thine!

when ends life's transient dream, when death's cold sullen stream shall o'er me roll,

"That's It All About?"

Pext: 2 Jamuel 7:19, "Then hing David went in and sat before the Lord, and said, "The an I U Lord Fod, and what is my house that thou hast brought me thus far?"

Several years ago there was a popular song called Alphie. The questioner in the song asked the question, "What's it all about Alphie? Is it just for the moment that we live?
What's it all about? When we started out Alphie are we meant to take more than we give? Or are we meant to be kind?

The words of this song are merely an echo of much of the world today. Nost people are searching, and seeking. The searching and seeking has taken some strange forms to be sure, but involved is a deep desire to find identity.

Some young people have unfortunately done, this with drugs and pills. Some young people and many adults do this with a bottle. Still others are doing this in various forms of religion. But in all circumstances is the element of quest. A quest for the knowledge of, Tribotan "What's It all about?" "What Is Life Anyhow?" "Who Am I?"

Hing David when confronted with the things that God said he was going to do through him, (David), he questioned this. He said, "Tho am I U Lord God, and what is my house that thou hast brought me thus far?" He was asking, "Whats it all about?" "Tho am I in this life?" "Show me Lord, and then we will both know."

Two teen-agers were talkin; about reincarnation and one of them expressed what is a common dream of most persons. He said, "Gee, I'd love to be reincarnated. Believe me, I'd rather be anybody but who I am." Our first impulse in life is to escape the life we are locked up in. We want to break away from what we are, where we are, and who we are. It is always rather amusing to hear someone refer to someone else as a hypocrite, because we are all hypocrites. We are born hypocrites and we die hypocrites. From the time when we are first aware of social pressure on our lives we live as hypocrites. Then someone says, "They'll just have to accept me for what I am," that person is really saying, "They'll just have to take me for what I'd like to have then think I am." To he is being hypocritical.

The word person comes from the Latin word "persona2 which means mask. We read in exodus of Poses face shining from being in the presence of God and so in order to hide the chine he not on a weil, a mask in other words. Our children out on masks on Maloween to to hide their identity. We all wear different masks at different times. No one is really known and seen as he is. The strange thing is that sometimes strangers know wore about us than we do about ourselves. I was amused this past week when a workman left a tool at our house, and, I returned it to the store, state boss remarked that the tool belonged to so and so. I asked if perhaps he had missed it, and the boss replied that she knew it belonged to him. Here is a case of THE ABOUT HIM THE EMBLYGE THINKS THE EMPLOYER KNOWS.

The see this social pressure exerted in many other parts of our society. In our attempts to be accepted by society we try to con-& STANDARDS form to the accepted patterns, and sometimes we do it very ridiculously. Look at all of the jirls running around wearing a ini skirts, who would do better to find a style much more suitable to them. For many of the style just isn't right.

Look at many of the youth, They think they are being rebels by wearing long hair, a beard, a dirty sweat sairt, blue jeans and sandals. But these people are not rebelling they are conforming. They are not rejecting the middle-aged establishment, they are accepting their own generation's establishment, whether they fit the pattern or not.

Suropeans have said on different occasions, "Americans are a lot of people who spend a lot of money they don't have to buy lot a lot of things they don't want to impress a lot of people they don't like."

himself that he is at the point in the class where he belonged with his low I, a father asks! "How can you stand to be last in a class of fifty students." ...nl the boy remarked "the could have been wors. There could have been a hundred in the class." It's all a matter of seeking identity.

In first Cleveland, Billy Fraham asked the question in his sermon one night, "The am I?" one leather lunged young man way up in the second tier toward the right field seats answered, "I'm somebody." .r. Graham replied, "It's too bad his theology is not as strong as his lungs. The answer is that I am a child of God."

A child of God. Ferhaps it is difficult to realize we are this, but that's who we are! That's what it's all about! Maturally we seek our identity, and naturally we are living in a very confusing time and age. But Faul tells us that we now see in this age as though we were looking in a mirror. All that we see is our reflection. We cannot see beneath the surface. But then we shall see face to face. In other words all will be revealed and exposed and there will be no more questing for identification. We will know and we will understand.

Love, somethin; that non-believers can believe in? But there is the problem, because nost non-believers are not willing to believe in love as you and I know it. The love that comes from God is the love that we know and it only comes into the heart of a person who seeks God. Non-believers are generally not seekers after God or they would not be called non-believers.

Love is what makes you or I or anyone what we are. We can mask our identity from others, and we can seek to hide behind our fronts, whether we are adults or teen-agers. We can mask our feelings and mask many of our actions, but we cannot hide from the love of God. Fod's love was made manifest in the life and person of Jesus Christ. God's love for us was shown by the death of Jesus Christ for our sins. God's love for us was revealed once and for all in the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

That's it all about? Who Am I? What is life all about? It's all about love. It's all involved in love. I believe in love, Do you? Anyone who believes in God must believe in love. For God is love, We find our identity when we find the love of God.

Therefore, proof agent and the second agent and the second agent and the second agent and the second agent a

TRANKSOSULUS STRUKE por 1974 ALL CHIE AS INVISED,

Ten': lets 10; j; "Tore we all are, assuabled in front of you to hear what means of her given you for us."

"Were we all are, ascembled in front of you to hear what messare "od has given you for us." This is what cornelius said to nater. This is indeed what any member of any congregation can say to their preacher on any given Junday. The Area of the household were very devout and foll wed the Jowish religion, but up to a point. They would not become circumcised as was required by lewish law. But nevertheless they were not papers. Jornalius in the earlier part of the chapter (Ith Chapter of Acts), if you care to read it for yourself, had a vision. He saw Jous and Jesus told him to contact ater. To he cent his agents to bring Peter to him that he might find out what this was all bout. Jeter then gave Cornelius the only thing that he could, and this was his faith and belief in Jesus. In escance what is recorded here is one of the first seruous of the early Church. Peter in a very short way, and very simply, in very and he had been and the life and ministry, death and recurrection of ears.

This is besically all we can preach. The life, ministry death and resurrection of Jens. This is the leavel. All of it tied up neatly in one little package and from it we must try to gain new insights and new ideas week after wek. And so when we come to church as Cornelius came to Feter, we can question and ask, "That has God given in a massa to this week? But has to specks loud and clear. But on other weeks to doesn't seem to be talking too much. I do not say this dispresentfully or sacriliciously, but truthfully. I have had been to ack me about rod. Some have confided in me that they seek to d's help and Tod's guidance constantly and yet many times lod does not seem to be too near at hand. I can not tell if Tod is near to you or to other people. I can only tell you how near dod has been to me. I can only tell you of my experiences and berne s in this way it may help you to feel the nearness of tod. I have felt many times that rod is not listening, that We is somewhere else and not with me. Tet after a day or two roses by and the answer I have been seek; parmeers, I know once egain for a fact that to accept. They cannot believe that and works in this way. They seem to feel or we heard quite wrongly that too answers immediately, like an IMM computer.

In this is not so. Sometimes the anser you may seek will not be forthcoming in a matter of weeks, but rest assured that food will show you the answer sometime in some way. It may even take the analytic person coming into your life. Tave you ever had a total stranger come up to you and talk to you about the very thing that you have been seeking an answer for? If you have you can realize that this could become very unnerving. But yet it may be the way in which food has chosen to give its answer to you. This is exactly how we worked through Peter. To gave a vision to Somelius telling him to seek out Jimon leter. And when he did he was very simply given the message of the "ospel.

Teter has always been one of my favorite Men Testament characters.

I have always liked his boldness, his dash and his nerve. Me was an impetuous man. He wanted to get things done. If we look around us we can see some Timon leter

ley. Let me add that this is not a bad thin, to posees in any Church, it is a mood thing. Most of us are easy joing, slow nevine, it'll get don, when I at to it types of receile. But the Ginon Peters went to get it done today, and they would much rather to have todays work done pesterday if they can. They are probably the real mainstays of any church since they continually strive to get things done. It have some Ginon Leters in this congregation. Men and women the are not content to merely delegate the work to someone else, but who feel a personal responsibility to get the work accomplished. I have always thought of one of my dearest friends as being exactly like Jimon Leter. You have seen hip and heard him preach. Foul aloys is his mane. I have known this man for over twenty years. We is impetuos, he becomes analy when something is left hanging. He worries that he cannot and is not doing enough for the church. He wants to get everything moving and beep it rolling. At the layment sessions in Greensburg, Faul the al-

of into another tearent. The motto of lets get the show on the road is one followed by others as well. But yet with all of the impetuosity and with all of the frive and the dash and nerve, indernating the sufface here at he are just marking to serve the fore the best they has low. Se need Smon Serve in every congretide, as well in the Jain and the arksyind a to love of the orieter cour. It teles i'l of this to make a con regulion. It it takes were and wo see the will never coope trii. to find 'od in their lives. Men and wo wen who will not quit because "od has seemed to be apart from thom for a noment of crisis. Yen and women who will still seek their answers. I recently was talking to a woman who ScapeTiere AGO hasn't rone to Thurch since her withou died several years are. I know the point nother quite well. The was a wonderful ordon. The went to where we make and tried to lead a mod life. Yet because the died a retier slow and harrible death this damp for sort of blames sod. The asked me, what the answer is. Al court in w the answer. Il I know is that we each have a certain length of tile to live. To some death comes quiet and easy, to others it is slow and rai ful. 's cannot control it. All we can do is to believe that Tod is with us helving no neatter what the crisis may be. I do not believe we are punished for our sins to the extent "at the worse we are the worse our death will be, ecouse we can witness to the GUICKE, fact that some pretty rotten seconds we may have known went pretty wick, while porce very decent good per le lingered on and on. Tut if we cannot acce t the fact that 'od loves us an cores for us them no amount of taling is ming to chance concerning. It is sinoly a metter of faith. Concline must kill and whether it havens quick or slow is really no reflection on the conducts or badness of our lives.

Teter was telling the only story that is know. The old old story of lesus and is love. A his is the only story that any preacher can really use time after bine. It seems that the ways of telling it are endleds and yell it is a story that ever or we old. It will continue to live on as locate there are non-who are wilking to tell it. Inter is a very mood example of what the Lord can do to a man when he comes i to his like. One was an uncouth fisherman. It of very little learning and schooling, but yet a man who had a will of iron and an unfainting spirit once he not started for the Lord. Too his done this down from the history with many of or men. Tavid is a good encapte. The clocker boy, the jet to bear as a very many and award life of the lord.

and the rousie and the publications are reconfed Christian and yet ou e or into his life and e'm of him into a Christian. The story is told of an Id man who was a drunkard and who had strangely been converted. To ceased his rinting and because a hard working sober individual. Tis fellow workers tried to rake a fool of him an continually teased him. They would say, " Prely you don't believe in miracles and all that jazz? surely you can't believe that Jesus turned turned water into wine? The old man ensured, "I don't know what'er "e changed water into line when Te was in Falestine. But I do know that in my own house and home He has changed beer into furniture. " God can do this to some. We can telte the most unlikely individual and turn him into a real parriance powerhouse. We can change you and I if we let "in. We need to accept simply and humbly the simple Tornel of Thrist. The Tornel as told by loter and all of the preachers down through the centuries. We need to merely accept it, believe in it and live it and lod can work in our lives as le had in the rast. The day of mirecles is not over as some may think. The biggst miracle of all may still be wrought by od. .nd this is the miracle of changing each of us into Wis willing workers, and the making of each of us into is ministers here on earth. If we are willing to call upon in and to let im work in our lives we may be awased at the results that occur in our lives and the lives of those around us. "Mere we are all accembled in front of y u to hear what nescage had has given you for us." This was the message of lornelius to leter and it is our message to the preachers and Churches of our time. The answer is simply, " od so loved the world, that To gave Tie only Teratten ion that whoseever believeth in Tim should not perish but have sterned life THESE WERE Deter's words to his questioners and these are the words we need to live by. Tod give us strongth to live the tosgel as well as to preach it. Tet us wray.

he tecord e phasis Unis mornin: in less tiet up in this Let [3, but it is also tied on with livent. In fact the scriping for this saming, could also be used for a perior devoted to the thought or belief in the lesson coming of Thrist. Low this morning I as not excite to cover that appear, and Tx by not covering it, I be not eas to imply that I be not believe in it, or do not think it is important. If respect for amitting that angest is simply because I want to focus on the livent as it as lies to key 73.

In our scripture we read a verse which states, "he who chaquers shall have this portion, and I will be his fod and he shall be my sor." This verse could imply several tolongs and paramps it does. But what it inclies to be is the son Jesus Thrist who case into the sorld than one lived and suffered and their range of sords in three different places in the whole. First we find it in Emesis 17:7, where son means to abraham and says, "and a will establish my covenant between me and you their and your descendants after you throughout your descendants for an ever-lasting covenant, to be fed to your and to your descendants after you." Then secondly he made the promise to the son who was to inherit David's kingdom in 2 samuel 7:14, "I will be his father and he shall be my son." and thirdly it is found in one of the Isalms, Isalm 19:27 and this verse is thought to be the promise of the Lessiah, it states, "And I will make him the firstborn, the himset of the lings of the earth."

Now in each of these we see the reference to the Son. In Jenesis it is a promise of Gou to the descendants of Abraham. To the son of David, and this son was bolomon. But if we read the rest of this story that lathan relates to David, we can see so many parallels to the nessiah that we must conclude that God could very easily have been foretelling of Jesus Christ. Ind the third promise in the Isakus is indeed the Messianic promise.

we try to place all of this in context and to take a prevue look at key 73 as well as the start of dwent we can see that we are takin; about the ling coming. Ley 73 is the program that will be preparing the way so that the king can come a pain. Avert is the program that prepares us individually for the coming of the ling into our lives personally. To we cannot actually separate one from the other.

that prompted my thoughts along these lines is a Tospel song that speaks of the ling Coming, and it is entitled simply, "The Hing Is Joming." This song has to do with the second coming of Josus Christ, but perhaps it could very serve as our marching song as we strive to counit our churches and ourselves into this day 73 program and into the season of advent 1972.

any people today will tell us very readily that there was not in It is a constitute of the second to the second tell of the second to the second tell of the second te

It may be simple and easy for an individual to slip into the past and to relive old memories and familiar and more happy times, but an entire age or generation of people cannot do this. We cannot return to the past and relive those so called, "Good Old Days."

Neither can the church or people of the church return to those, "Good Old Day.2 We must constantly push forward and onward. Paul tells us, "Therefore if anyone is in Christ; he is a new creation; the old has passed away the new has come." In others words, this is a new day, a new era, a new age. We must vlive in this time, in this place and become new creatures in Christ. When we are accepters and followers of Jesus Christ, we put on the new being, the new self. All of the past is just that, the past, and we must start living the new life.

We also read in the book of Revelation in the chapter, "And he who sat upon the throne said, "Behold I make all things new."
We cannot live in the past, we cannot cling to the past, we must go on. Yet there are some in the church who would have us cling to the things of the past simply because of tradition. Now tradition is fine up to a point. But simply because we have done something a certain way for as long as anyone can remember, does not make it the only way it can be done. Simply because we have always done this, does not make it an unbreakable law of the church. Times change, and the church must change, but more importantly the people in the church must change.

We cannot live in past glory, we cannot look back at our record in this church or any other church and say this must be our standard. We must look at the present and the future and accept them as the challenge to change and to meet the new ages and the new times.

We cannot look back and say well we accomplished this and so there are no more goals to aspire to. Rather, we must look at the past as a guage to see where we can improve and to build upon any records or achievements made in the past.

I think Jesus stated this very plainly when he said, "No one who puts his hand to the plow andl looks back is fit for the king of God.2 What He was really saying was, "Once you have promised to be a follower of mine, you must strive to ever go forward and to improve. You must not look at your past accomplishments and say, 'See what I have done for God,' or, 'Look what our church has done,' but you must instead look at the situation and continue to build upon it and continue to grow and change." This must be the purpose of any church and it must be the purpose of any Christian. To strive to live in the past or to live on the past merits of others will not do. We must continue to grow or we die.

(For New Bloomfield)

Since I have been the Pastor here, I have seen the Duncannon church challenge itself to fulfilling a goal for the OCWM each year, and each year they have met this challenge and exceeded it. In this church I have tried to make the church challenge itself to no avail. The story I hear from so many of the congregation is that there is a fund of money that has been given by one of the departed members, and because of this sum of money, I do not need to give. Use that money to run the church. Now this says nothing to the people who make these remarks, because they cannot see that they owe the Lord a responsibility and regardless of what Miss X left to this church, they should be a strong supporting member of this church.

ANALYSAMESEK STROME THE STROME TO Un have heard it before and you will hear it again and again, that in order to survive we must grow and build. This does not mean that we must keep on adding large numbers of members or putting on additions. But it does mean that we the members of this church must continue to change our attitudes toward the church, and our attitudes about giving and living. If you would like to see two very good examples of what living in the past and upon past performances can do to someone, then let me take you with me someday to two nearby institutions and you can see first hand a woman who has gone back to being a child and playing with dolls and living in a child world. Or a retired school teacher who lives in a world of fantasy. This is the danger of living in the past.

(For Both churches)

When we think of the possibilities that exist in the as yet untarnished New Year, our hearts should beat just a little faster and our minds should be turned to the Thoughts of how we can each one grow and change in khiskmen these bright and shiny new days that God will give to us.

Here is a classic example of looking for the obvious and overlooking the beauty that is nearby. It shows a blindness to the possibilities that are to be found in any circumstance.

Possibly you have heard the story of the men building St.

Baul's Cathedral in London, which was designed by Christopher Wren the brilliant English architect. Mr. Wren came to the job this one day, and inquired of several workmen who were laying stone what they were doing.

The men did not know who he was and could have cared less, so he received appropriate answers from each one. The first man answered, "I'm laying stone." The second man said, "I'm laboring with this stone work can't you see that?" The third man when he was asked replied in glowing terms, *Why, I'm helping to build a beautiful cathedral."

To two of the men it was merely a task, or a job that had to be done. They were merely working because it was necessary to do so to feed themselves and their families. To the third man it was not only a necessity of life, but a labor of love. He could see the beautiful stone columns and pillars rising from nothing, and becoming the beautiful cathedral which it is. He had a vision for the future and could see beyond his pile of stone what would take place. And this is what we upon endless weary day in which to do the necessary things of life, but we should see instead, day hours and seconds, and minutes to be used by each of us for the kingdom of God. Days that are full of many opportunities to tell others of Jesus Christ. Days that can change each one of us and make us the new creatures we should become.

"Those were the Days?", I suppose they were, but they cannot possibly have the bhallenge and the sense of adventure about them which the next 365 present. If you care to live in the "Good Old Days" for Reseasanted parties outside toilets, improper heating, and all of the other discomforts and inconveniences bother you as much as they did the people who made the necessary changes from them, then the new year will be to you a time for change and new creations. May it be indeed in 1973, "Behold the new has come" in the Trinity charge, and may we be able with the to look back upon each year and say, "Yes, those were the good the days, but we can do better this next year."
